The Girls Will Flip

Not all young girls want to dress like princesses, rock stars, or look like they are going to a nightclub. So what do they wear?

That's the question that prompted two Alberta-based moms to found Triple Flip, a company that makes fun, pretty active and casualwear for tween girls. The line, which recently opened a location in Park Royal, features clothing, outerwear, and accessories specifically designed for that age group (they measured 400 girls to figure out the best possible fit.) Our picks? The Valley T, $35-$39 (its SO Flashdance) and the Minky Lounge Pant, $39.

Of course we know what you are thinking, and the answer is yes, they go all the way up to a women's size 8.
